Nansemond River Beachfront

Former Nansemond Ordnance Depot

Layered Slag Material Found at the Beachfront

Removal Efforts at the Beachfront

Beachfront After Removal

- Location/size of site: A 353-foot stretch of Nansemond River Beach behind the GE Plant.
- What was found? Non-hazardous slag, which is the refuse from burnt ordnance. No live OE items were found.
- Work completed? The Corps removed slag material from the beach. The removal action was complete in September 2001.
- What's next? Near-term monitoring to remove additional slag that washes up on shore and confirmation sampling to determine if any additional work is needed.
